1. BRUCE & JAN TOVELL
1101 Broadview Avenue

An interesting mixture of an older house decorated in a modern artistic manner is to be found here.

Built in 1907, this lovely home has large, light, airy rooms. The living room has oak floors and beams, a bottle-glass window, a large fireplace and a turret window seat which is usually occupied by the family cats.

Originally each room had a fireplace and no two were exactly alike. The kitchen has been completely remodeled with only the windows remaining the same.

The 9 x 9-foot stained glass window in the stairway landing is an original feature and Jan plans to research its history.

2. BOB & RUTH FRIDENSTINE
1085 Westwood Avenue

This is one of the oldest homes in Grandview built circa 1892. Professor Wendell Paddock bought the home in 1909 and it remained in the family until the Fridenstines bought it in 1960. It is included in the book Architecture Columbus published by the Columbus Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Bob and Ruth have restored the home themselves, keeping the atmosphere of the older period, but adding their own new touches. The oak front door with the bronze hardware and the decorative brass hardware on the interior door are all original.

Both Bob and Ruth have many hobbies and have incorporated them in the decor throughout their home. Please note the outstanding photographic gallery on the stairway wall. Ruth's artistic touch is shown in her "stained glass" windows.

The yard has many varieties of wildflowers, which were started by Professor Paddock and are carefully tended by the Fridenstines.

3. MARK & ELLEN TOMLINSON
1183 Wyandotte Road

Entering this home gives the visitor the feeling of a step back into time. Built circa 1911 by Harold B. Gatch, it was owned and lived in by a member of the Gatch family until it was bought by the Tomlinsons in 1975.

Many of the original features of the house still exist, and Mark and Ellen have carefully preserved them. Among the originals are lovely chandeliers, coal and wood fireplaces, pressed paper wall covering, draperies and stained glass windows. There is a solarium and in the adjacent den are stained glass windows the Gatches brought from their home on Parsons Ave.

4. RAY & GRETCHEN BELL STEGMEIER
1342 Lincoln Road

Built about 1904, this residence is an example of a small house transformed into an attractive modern home.

The Stegmeiers both grew up in Grandview and their present home once belonged to Ray's grandfather. The house now has three bedrooms, new clothes closets, modern brick fireplace and a large enclosed back porch that can be used eight months of the year. The kitchen and bath have also been completely modernized.

In front of the house is a daffodil garden, which is one of Gretchen's special interests.

5. TOM & LESLIE PALMER
1492 Roxbury Road

The setting of this rambling old house is just one of its attractive features. Designed by architect Frank L. Packard, this house was originally a one floor plan, unusual for 1896.

Built by P.S. Skeele, it was sold to the Robert Williams family in 1935 and to Tom and Leslie Palmer in 1974. Tom has repaired, restored and remodeled. One of the biggest changes was to make the attic area into two bedrooms and a bath. A downstairs room has been enlarged into a lovely family room. Note the fireplace in the entry hall, the dining room corner-cupboard left by the Skeeles, and the new stained glass windows beside the front door.

The pines in the front yard were Christmas trees planted by the two previous owners. This home is also included in the book Architecture Columbus.
